

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides shared registers in a multi-processor system with a contention management protocol when a register is simultaneously accessed by more than one processor. Each register includes access protocol and data. The access protocol includes an access type for each processors and arbitration priority. The configurable access type being selected from a group that includes READ, READ/CLEAR, READ/SET, and READ/WRITE